This means that the virus can spread between people interacting in close proximity—for example, speaking, coughing, or sneezing—even if those people are not exhibiting symptoms. In light of this new evidence, CDC recommends wearing cloth face coverings in public settings where other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain (e.g., grocery stores and pharmacies) especially in areas of significant community-based transmission.”; and

WHEREAS, an increasing number of counties and municipalities throughout Florida and the United States have adopted versions of facial covering requirements, including the City of Key West (State of Local Emergency Directive 2020-05), Miami-Dade County (Emergency Order 19-20), and Alachua County (Emergency Order 20-13).
