TECHNICAL MEMORANDUM

Prepared For: Ms. Rhonda Haag, Monroe County
Prepared By: Wood Environment & Infrastructure Solutions, Inc.
Subject: Environmental Desktop Review (Ecological Permitting Constraints)
Project: Monroe County Sea Level Rise

INTRODUCTION and BACKGROUND

Wood Environment and Infrastructure Solutions, Inc. (Wood) is pleased to present this technical memorandum in support of Monroe County, FL's analysis of roadway adaptive strategies. Climate change, including but not limited to extreme weather conditions and rising sea levels has prompted planners and officials to develop strategies that support a more resilient transportation system. This technical memorandum focuses on identifying Monroe County managed roadways that are located in such close proximity to resources or areas that provide habitat for protected resources that the presence of such resources may limit the types of adaptive strategies that can be applied.

Due to the unique ecological setting of the Florida Keys and Monroe County, road adaptation projects may require local, state, and federal permitting requirements that involve impacts (direct and/or indirect) to resources or areas that provide habitat for protected resources. The goal of this environmental evaluation is to identify County managed roadways that have environmental constraints that may affect their ability to be permitted and adapted.

In order to achieve the above referenced goal, the environmental evaluation of Monroe County roadways involves two primary tasks:

Task 1) The first task involved the development of a database that includes a list of potential environmental constraints that could affect permitting and adaptation for each roadway.

Task 2) Using the databased created during Task 1, a comparison of roadways, with various types of adaptive strategies, and environmental constraints was performed to determine which projects areas may require additional analysis and permitting (to be completed following the program's design phase). Based on the results of the desktop evaluation, a technical specialist will inspect a subset of projects to confirm their ability to be permitted.

METHODOLOGY

In order to develop an environmental constraints database that could be used be used to evaluate the permissibility of adaptive roadway strategies, the following regulations were used as references to guide technical specialists in the database's development:

Federal Level:

- The Clean Water Act (CWA), (33 U.S.C. §§ 1251, et. seq. 1973)) establishes the basic structure for regulating discharges of pollutants into the waters of the United States and regulating quality standards for surface waters. The United States Army Corps of Engineers (USACE), through its permit program, regulates the discharge of dredged or fill material into waters of the U.S., including wetlands, pursuant to Section 404 of the CWA.
- The Endangered Species Act (ESA), (16 U.S.C. §1531 et seq. of 1973) provides a program for the conservation of threatened and endangered plants and animals and the habitats in which they are found. The lead Federal agencies for implementing ESA are the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) and the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). The law requires Federal agencies to ensure that actions they authorize, fund, or carry out are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of any listed species or result in the destruction or adverse modification of designated critical habitat of such species. The law also prohibits any action that causes a “taking” of any listed species of endangered fish or wildlife.
 - Section 7(a)(2) of the ESA, (16 U.S.C. 1531, et. seq. 1973) requires that for actions authorized, funded, or carried out by a Federal agency, that the agency shall, in consultation with USFWS and/or NMFS, ensure that the action is not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of any endangered or threatened species or result in the destruction or adverse modification of the critical habitat of the endangered or threatened species. Therefore, before any activity can be authorized by the USACE under Section 404 of the Clean Water Act or Section 10 of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899, the USACE must ensure that the project is in compliance with ESA.
- National Environmental Policy Act (42 U.S.C. §4321 et seq. (1969)) requires the government to give consideration to the environment before undertaking any major federal action that significantly affects the environment. Categorical exclusions, environmental assessments and environmental impact statements are all types of assessments of the likelihood of impacts from alternative actions. Federal actions are defined at 40 CFR 1508.18. Various assessments will be triggered based on the size and scope of the major federal actions. Such actions triggered by this project could include use of National Park Service lands or implementation/construction of adaptation measures within or proximate to federally protected resources.
- National Marine Sanctuary Act (16 U.S.C. §1431 et seq. (2000)) and the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary and Protection Act, Pub. L. 101-605 (16 U.S.C. 1433 note 1990)) may also have implications for water quality and habitat related to road and adaptation measures.
- Everglades National Park is protected under the National Park Service Organic Act (16 U.S.C. § 1) among other laws and proximity of roads to Park boundaries may also trigger various regulatory reviews and authorizations.

State Level:

- The State of Florida Environmental Resource Permitting (ERP) Program regulates activities involving the alteration of surface water flows. This includes new activities in uplands that generate stormwater runoff from that construction, as well as dredging and filling in wetlands and other surface waters.

- An Outstanding Florida Water (OFW) is a water designated worthy of special protection because of its natural attributes. This special designation is applied to certain waters and is intended to protect existing good water quality. Projects regulated by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (FDEP) or a Water Management District (SFWMD) that are proposed within an OFW must not lower existing ambient water quality, which is defined for purposes of an OFW designation as the water quality at the time of OFW designation or the year before applying for a permit, whichever water quality is better. In general, DEP cannot issue permits for direct discharges to OFWs that would lower ambient (existing) water quality.
- Rule 68A-27.003, F.A.C. provides protections for plant and animal species identified by the federal ESA and the State of Florida as threatened or endangered. In addition to the species covered under the federal ESA, Rule 68A-27.003, F.A.C. provides protections for species whose existence in Florida may be imperiled.

Local Level:

- Monroe County, Florida issues a building permit for projects located in the floodplain. The Monroe County permit application is a combined Building-Floodplain-Developmental Permit Application that includes review by a Planning and Environmental Resource County biologist as well as a review of compliance with the Florida Building Code. County biologist review permit applications to confirm compliance with Monroe County developed wildlife management plans.

Constraints Database

Wood created an environmental constraints database (Attachment A) using the list of Monroe County roadways included by Michael Baker International in their LiDAR survey. Using the LiDAR, Wood developed map layers compatible with Google Earth. Wood's technical specialist used the Google Earth platform in combination with the Florida Natural Areas Inventory (FNAI) and FWS National Wetlands Inventory (NWI) to identify documented constraints that could affect project permitability. The following is a brief description of the databases used to screen the potential project areas.

- FNAI is a non-profit organization administered by Florida State University. The inventory includes a Biodiversity Matrix Map Server which is a screening tool that provides immediate, free access to rare species occurrence information statewide. The FNAI Biodiversity Matrix offers built-in interpretation of the likelihood of species occurrence for each 1-square-mile Matrix Unit across the state. The report includes a site map and list of species and natural communities by occurrence status: Documented, Documented-Historic, Likely, and Potential. The environmental constraints database primarily focused on the documented resources listed by FNAI unless professional experience indicated that the likely species would most certainly be present within a project area.
- The USFWS is the principal US Federal agency tasked with providing information to the public on the status and trends of our Nation's wetlands. The US FWS National Wetlands Inventory (NWI) is a publicly available resource that provides detailed information on the abundance, characteristics, and distribution of US wetlands.

Database Criteria

- Primary Criteria 1: Proximity of roadway to wetlands, canals, and marine waters.
 - Determining factor: whether or not a structure exists between the roadway and the wetland or waterbody.
- Secondary Criteria: Is the roadway project area located within an FNAI biodiversity unit that has a documented presence of federally listed ESA species within or near the project area.
 - Determining factor: Is the ESA listed species a terrestrial plant or animal, bird, aquatic plant or animal.
- Tertiary Criteria: Is the roadway project area located within an FNAI biodiversity unit that contains species listed by only Florida as threatened or endangered.
 - Determining factor: Is the Florida listed species a plant or animal.
- Final Criteria: Presence of any existing environmental or structural condition that could affect the permitting

RESULTS

The potential sea level rise adaptive strategy projects will be located within the communities of unincorporated Monroe County, FL. Based on a review of the environmental constraints database, project areas may be bounded by the following land uses:

- Residential communities and businesses,
- Undeveloped natural spaces,
- Community parks and beaches, or
- A mix of the above referenced landscapes.

For project areas not bounded entirely by private residences or businesses, Monroe County roadways have the potential to be located adjacent to wetlands as well as, intersect tidally influenced waters that connect maritime ecosystems with coastal wetlands and canals. Based on a review of technical databases, project constraints may include presence of mangrove wetlands, salt flats, and canals as well as, ESA listed species.

A preliminary review of the roadway project limits and documented environmental constraints indicate the following:

- Approximately 293 Monroe County roadways or roadway segments are located adjacent to either a canal or marine waters;
- There are potentially 165 roadways or roadway segments located within FNAI biodiversity units that contain documented federal ESA listed species; and
- Using a buffer of approximately 20 feet, there are potentially 311 roadway or roadway segments located in close proximity to NWI classified wetlands.

CONCLUSION and RECOMMENDATIONS

Professional scientists developed an environmental constraints database for the purpose evaluating the permitability of adaptive roadway strategies on Monroe County managed roadways. The development of database relied upon information derived from technical databases managed by government and non-profit organizations.

It is recommended that upon completion of the design phase for the adaptive strategies, the environmental constraints database be modified to include the proposed actions so that an additional evaluation of roadway adaptive strategies can be performed.

Based on the presence of protected natural resources that would require permitting of impacts, it is recommended that upon obtaining information on the proposed adaptive strategy for each roadway or roadway segment, a subset of roadways are field inspected to confirm the presence of environmental constraints.
